As you follow the path that winds through the pinewood, you come to a small cove where time seems to have stopped. An understated charm imbues the whole scene.

The cove is surrounded by fishermen's huts that seem to hover on the shoreline, just a stone's throw from the pines and Phoenician junipers that stand on higher ground.

A relaxed and easy atmosphere draws us to the beach bar, imbued with rustic family charm.

Smiles and genuine warmth captivate us as, right away, we feel like we're part of a little family. Small boats lie at anchor, patiently awaiting their crews so that they can resume their adventures: the endless quest for azure waters. On the other side of the hill, facing the sea, stands an old watchtower that offers panoramic views over the coastline.

Absolute harmony.

After a long and spectacular excursion, we arrive at Cala Mestella, secreted between pine trees and Phoenician junipers. The warmth of the sun intensifies, so we decide to head to a wooden beach shack that blends in perfectly with the landscape. It is decorated with native objects, giving it authenticity and a unique charm.

We perceive a divine mix of smells: history, wood, salt, homemade food, and peace. The cove is tranquil, cosy and secluded, set like a jewel into the coastal rock formations that call out to be explored. For kayakers, it is ideal.

The kids have already made plans to come back tomorrow. You feel free here, fully immersed in the present moment.

Here, indeed, is the ultimate getaway.

A boardwalk runs along this white-sand beach and leads you to a wooden beach shack, snugged right into the sand and fringed with palm leaves. Just as we see a free table on the sand – sheltered under the shade of a great pine tree – we are welcomed by a hearty greeting. Here, at this special spot, the warmth of the beach and the coolness of the forest create a magical atmosphere, perfect for losing yourself in a book, or just being lulled by the sound of lapping waves.

The air carries the delicious aroma of traditional cooking combined with the scent of salt and resin. It is a setting that both calms mind and, at the same time, invites you to go play in the surf.

Their laughter and the soft sound of lapping waves creates a perfect melody that lures you in a bubble of serenity and makes you want to stay.

Like a picture-perfect idyll, an impressive view of the coastline spreads out before your eyes: the mouth of the river empties into the sea, tall pine trees rise up, and the lovely beaches of Santa Eulària des Riu curl around the coast, as small boats bob in the distance.

Surrounded by the fresh fragrance of the Mediterranean forest, this special place sits right on the sand just a few metres from the sea. We walk along a dirt track until we reach this charming beach bar, perched on the rocks and tantalizingly close to the water's edge. The rippling of the waves and a cordial greeting break the silence. We seem to have entered another dimension and time seems to stop.

Before us, the horizon opens out onto an immense blue, punctuated only by the white flecks of passing sailboats. Across the sea stands Dalt Vila, Ibiza's majestic walled city that still presides over the bay, although no longer to warn against pirates but rather to attract those who behold it. The view from this beach bar is a sight we will never tire of contemplating and the tranquility that envelops us is indescribable.
